A MERRY

CHRISTMAS TO ALL

CHRISTMAS DAY. Christmas Day is of Christian Gurin and though it is a day especially appreciable to Christian people, all have come to recognize it as a time which may bring joy and peace to young and old. It is a day of gift giving, celebrated in commemoration of the Greatest Gift to man, and if it be observed as a holiday in the spirit in which it is intended. it must bring pleasure to all. It is the one day set apart, especially, when friends may remember each other by some token of affection and esteem, when charity and kindness should be in every heart. It is the day which should be an example for all other days in its expression of the joy, love and sympathy of a Christian life. There is scarcely a person in this county in which we live, who is in such straightened circumstances that he may not give gifts of some sort, and they are fewer whose condition in life is so unfortunate that they may not appreciate the spirit of Christmas Day. After all, we are a very fortunate people, for we have, universally, all of the necessaries of life, and most of us many of the luxuries. We have compassion for the people of other lands who are in distress, but can we appreciate the poverty and misery of those nations in which there is war and famine ! We, as a people, are so far removed from the condition in which many are that we often fad to be thankful for what we have. Yet the poor are among even us, to whom much kindness can be done always, but especially on that day when self is to be forgotten in the remembrance of others.

The follows a branked reference Chrit is is made by the Pholodelphia Record: It is supposed by some that it 25 h of December was fixed as the day o commemorate the birth of Jesus Christ in order to supplant the heathen festival of the Saturnalia, which occured on that day. In the early centuries the festival was observed on the 6th of Jauuary, that day being also the feast of the Epiphany. It was not until the Fifth Century that the Christmas festi val was generally observed on the 25th day of December; but doubtless there is a very real difficulty in regarding that day as the date of the Nativity. For it December the rainy season in Judea is at its height, and at that time neither flocks nor shepherds could have been in the fields of Bethlehem at night. But the ass sciations are the same, and would, without doubt, have been equally so even if the testival had been a movable one, connected with the Nativity of Occ. Lord, whatever the date when that event occurred, are and accessarily must be very near and tender, yet Christmas his always had something of the spirit of the Saturnalia in its observance. It is a day of testivity. In the higher circles of England, and at court, for a long period, a Lord of Misrule was regularly appointed to have charge of the revels. In Scotland, the Abbot of Unreison was similarly appointed and with similar functions. In 1555 this ancient office was abolished by Act of Parliament. In la'er renerations, although more attention, perhaps, has been given to the religious and solemn aspects of the season, yet its festive character has hever been forgotten nor neglected. This transfer again, and our Sunday Schools are increasing accordingly.

And we trust it never will be! It is the senson when triends are recalled and removed the senson when triends are recalled and removed the senson when the generous instincts and the letorned school on Friday evening, of the heart are awakened; when different schools of the letorned school on Friday evening and the letorned school on Friday evening.

In the foreign for the form of the fo never been forgotten nor neglected are interchanged, and when the poor are crees on solaced. "Tease on earth, good will to men" still thinks the heart, as gold, and the festival in which all Christendom repolees, instead of teng overshadowed by the glories of advancing civilization, grows brighter as the years go by, and the cradle at Bethlehem is a real to the children of it—day as is was to the Magi who brought them costly gifts to its humble shelter when the star of the Nativity flist dawned upon the earth.

It was just one year ago Since her dear spirit fied; She's gone where earthly troubles Will worry her no more.

When all our troubles cease.
Until we meet in heaven.
Dear nunty, rest in peace.

Waep not for dear nunty, Hor gentle spirit fled; She sweetly sleeps with Jesus, Among the silent dead.

Yes, she is gone, but not forgotten
In the minds of any one;
And ere long we hope to meet her
